I Object!

And you'll object too when you read this...

Therapeutic Foster Care parents are given a room and board payment of $8 per day for each child in their care. With 20% of that payment designated for clothing, foster parents are expected to clothe a child on $1.60 per day, $48 per month, or $576 per year. According to the USDA, families spend an average of $892 on clothing for children ages 12-17. That's a difference of $316 per child. And that doesn't take into account family hand-me-downs and clothes that are worn from year to year. Many foster children come into care with only the clothes on their backs; and everything from pajamas to school uniforms to bathing suits needs to be purchased for them.

Gateway has approximately 140 children in Residential Treatment and Therapeutic Foster Care. The Birmingham Bar Association has more than 3,000 members. If each member donated $15, these children would have the clothes they need.
